I understand. Per CAPP, you won't be able to start rotations unless you have a passing score so if the score comes back after January 12, you will have to delay.

Hi Dr. Wackett,

Yes, I understand the timeline. Due to the proximity of the transitional course, I will take the exam in late December around the 27th to give me a few more days after the first part of the course is over. If the score comes back later, if you'd like, we can wait to see the score before beginning rotations in the next block.

I think either way, the exam report will likely come out after the first block has already started.

Best,

Robert

Dear Robert,

I hadn't heard back from you after our last email. Just wanted to follow up regarding your Step 1 plans and to make sure you understood the timeline.

Sincerely;
Andrew Wackett
